

Meet Sean Edins

Sean Edins, our Executive Director of Worship Ministries, has been on staff at Keller United Methodist Church (KUMC) since May 2009. In his current role he leads worship, supervises and coordinates audio visual requirements on campus, creates graphics for worship, communications and ministries, organizes and produces Livestream events and spearheads outreach on social media. He also supervises the Praise Band, and coordinates the selection of music used in worship services.

In his years at KUMC, Sean has enjoyed the ability to use his creativity to help connect the church and meet their spiritual needs. He loves getting to know the members and hear how the music at worship resonates with them. He especially appreciates the individualism and unique identity of KUMC. “We do our own thing and are not trying to compete with other churches” says Sean, “but serve our congregation in ways that we feel best represent our values as a church.”

Sean grew up in Hamilton, Texas, a town of approximately 3,000 people in Central Texas. According to Sean, the nearest Walmart was in Waco (over an hour away), and they knew they were on the map when a Sonic opened in town. Sean held a variety of jobs before coming to KUMC including Barista at Starbucks. One of the most interesting positions he held was as a member of the touring performance group, “Vocal Trash”.
